However, upon the recommendation of Asst AG Weinberg, Dr. Turner will submit an official written request addressed to the GBHAE through HPLO. In addition, Asst AG Weinberg stated that the published agenda should be modified to better describe the issue before the Board, e.g., more descriptive title of the issue, attached correspondence. Therefore, In addition, Dr. Turner provided a written response on the ZOOM chat, where she stated that she had copies of the licenses of those wishing to participate in the GAIN Project, however, she was unsure if GAIN submitted the licenses to HPLO as was done in the past. On a separate issue, the Chair reminded the GBAHE of the mandate for annual training for euthanasia for animals.	GBAHE	1243	Set Date

THE SCORE

Eagles

Acevedo said the three quick goals in the first half rattled him, but he learned to regain his confidence.

"I got better as the game went on. We can play better than we did. It's all about getting better."

Jameson said he was missing some key defensive starters and has good talent at forward.

"Hopefully when we play Harvest again, we'll have a different result," he said.

Girls volleyball

In IIAAG girls volleyball action, the Academy of Our Lady of Guam Cougars beat the Harvest Christian Academy Eagles 25-17, 25-23, 25-11. Academy also defeated Harvest's JV team 25-9, 25-20.

Cougars coach Manny Guarin said that despite the victory, it wasn't his team's best game.

"I think we gave away more points than we earned. So, from a coaching perspective, I take it as a loss," he said. "We just started slow. You can't do that against any other team and fortunately we were able to recoup."

He said it's going to be back to basics at practice this week.

The St. John's Knights

beat the St. Paul Warriors 25-9, 25-11, 25-9. Most of the Warriors were mainly swing players, but the girls did their best to defend against powerful hits from the Knights.

MailHub delivers at Volley for a Cause

By AT Garrido
For Pacific Daily News

Fourteen teams dedicated their time during the Labor Day weekend to help raise funds for the annual Relay for Life. In the end, it was the MailHub Passports who overcame the Hatsa Volleyball Club for the victory to take home the trophy as the 2022 Volley for a Cause co-ed tournament.

The four-day tournament started on Friday, with the two top teams facing off Monday afternoon in a two-match thriller that had fans entertained from start to finish at the Dededo Sports Complex.

"We played some tough games against the Royals, (Triple J) Five Star and the finally against Hatsa. In the finals, we had to win two straight games, so the cards were stacked against us, but we're just glad we came through," said MailHub team captain Jenz Sabangan. "We are grateful for our sponsor, MailHub, who reminded us why we were here and that was to show amazing sportsmanship while doing our best to raise awareness through volleyball."

MailHub came out of the losers' bracket to beat Five Star to get to the finals. Team Hatsa was waiting after claiming the winner's bracket unbeaten. After a three-set victory in their first match, MailHub was able to win the "if" game in two sets to claim the 2022 championship.

The MailHub team featured many former all-star volleyball players — Jenna Almoguera, Elijah Garrido, Bryzen Punongbayan and Charles Jackson — peppered with current players Rui Ventura and Ella Wigsten.

The Hatsa team had up-and-coming players fill their squad.

"John Paul (Taimanglo) has always been our 'big man' in the middle. His
